

Unless the Lord

© Myles Bing 1998

<sup>D</sup> Unless the Lord <sup>G</sup> builds the house

<sup>A</sup> The building <sup>G</sup> is <sup>A</sup> no <sup>D</sup> good

(Boom, boom, unless...)
